

Budgeting for Oil and Gas | eLearning module

MODULE

About the Skill Module

This skill module is a guide through the most important activity an oil and gas company undertake. More important than exploring for oil or operating existing assets? Yes, and this skill module explains why that is true. When it comes to the big picture of economics, budgeting suddenly takes center stage and displays its power to drive economic success. Budgeting is where economic success is incubated. In this skill module, budgeting methodology is explained, and the contribution economic evaluation tools make to the process is clarified.
